FileYourTaxes.com Announces the Beginning of 2009 Tax Season

FileYourTaxes.com announced that they will be officially accepting returns today, January 16, 2009, coincident with the date that the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) will also be heralding the 2009 tax season for all calendar year taxpayers that will be filing their 2008 year tax returns. Due to the late law passage changes, IRS will not be able to accept certain forms at the beginning of the season.

Atilla Taluy said FileYourTaxes.com is ready to assist all taxpayers in getting their refunds early as we have done for many years in the past through eFile. The refunds issued to paper filed returns take longer for the IRS to process. In these dire economic times, we will do our best to help the taxpayers claim the refund of their taxes, stimulus related payments and the credits that they are entitled to through the rapid IRS direct debit option or financial institution products.”

Atilla continued, FileYourTaxes.com is an original member of the Free File Alliance, LLC (FFA) and each tax season for seven years, contributes free Federal tax return construction and eFiling to many taxpayers. This year we have extended our offer to cover a larger adjusted gross income and a greater number of states. We will begin to serve the Free File taxpayers same day the IRS begins the 2009 tax season.”

FileYourTaxes.com is ready serve the vast number of repeat users as well as new ones. Taxpayer will find the comprehensive, newly redesigned and easy to use tax system developed specifically for the Online taxpayers. The system continuously and vigilantly protects the privacy and the security of the data and Online relationship with all of the tax agencies of the taxpayers' choice.
